MISS UNIVERSE 2006–2025

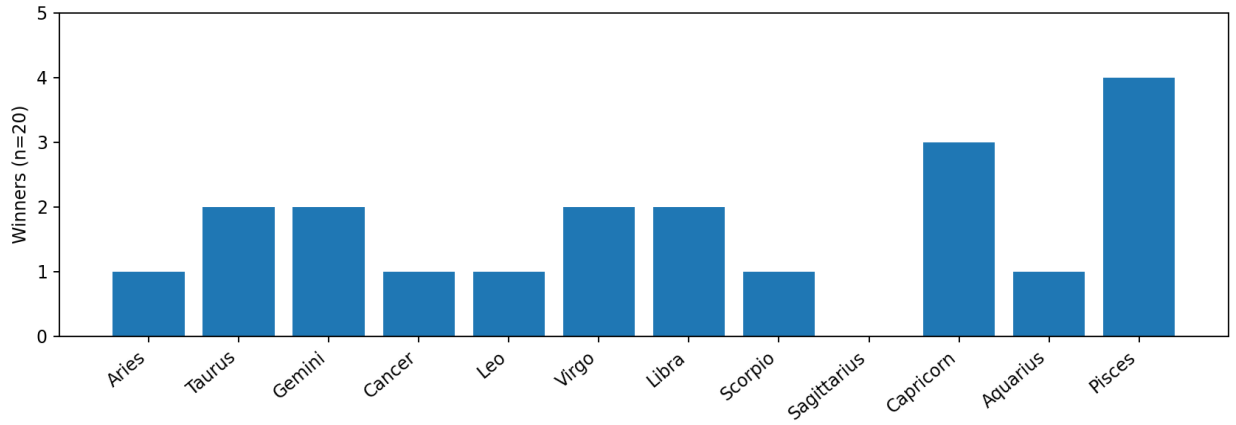
Twenty crown holders | Birth-date research | Tropical planetary placements

Research scope

This study examines the 20 consecutive Miss Universe title years from 2006 through 2025, one recognized titleholder per year. The winners and recorded dates of birth were cross-checked against the Miss Universe Organization's official Legacy archive. It is a winners-only dataset: it cannot measure which zodiac signs are more likely to win without data on all contestants.

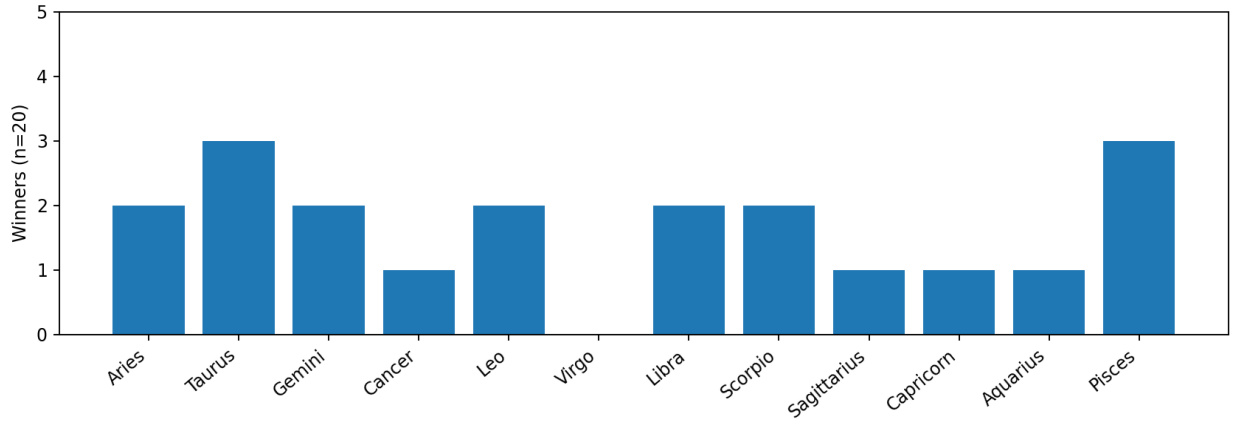
20 winners | 20 countries/year entries | 7 planetary placements per winner | 140 planet-sign observations

Sun signs of the winners



Pisces appears four times (20%), followed by Capricorn with three (15%). The Sun sign of 2022 winner R'Bonney Gabriel changes between Pisces and Aries during her recorded birth date; Pisces here is the reference-noon classification, not a verified birth-time result.

Venus signs of the winners



Venus in Taurus and Venus in Pisces tie at three winners each (15%). Venus is stable across the sampled birth date for all 20 titleholders. No winner-versus-contestant comparison is possible from these counts.

Calculation protocol

Swiss Ephemeris (tropical zodiac, geocentric ecliptic longitude). Reference time: 12:00 UTC on the date of birth. Sign stability checked at 00:00, 12:00 and just before 24:00 UTC on that date. This is a preliminary sensitivity check, not a complete birth-time reconstruction. Moon, Ascendant and houses are intentionally excluded.

Data-quality and interpretation notes

The sample is small (n=20). Results are descriptive frequencies among winners only, with no baseline of finalists or all contestants. Apparent concentrations may arise by chance. The 2022 winner's Sun sign is time-sensitive, so the Pisces total could be three rather than four. The dataset covers 2006–2025 because the 2026 competition has not yet been awarded as of 1 November 2026.
